CREDIT OF COURSES

The term 'credit' refers to the weightage given to a course, usually in terms of the number of instructional hours per week assigned to it. The workload relating to a course is measured in terms of credit hours. It determines the number of hours of instruction required per week over a semester (minimum 15 weeks).

- a) One hour of teaching/ lecture or two hours of laboratory /practical work will be assigned per class/interaction.

One credit for Theory	= 15 Hours of Teaching
One credit for Practicum	= 30 Hours of Practical work
One credit for Internship	= 02 Weeks of Practical experience
- b) For credit determination, instruction is divided into three major components:

Tutorials (T) – Special, elaborate instructions on specific topics of one hour duration

Practical (P) – Laboratory or field exercises in which the student has to do experiments or other practical work of a two-hour duration.

AIMS OF BACHELOR'S DEGREE PROGRAMME IN ANTHROPOLOGY

The broad aims of bachelor's degree programme in Anthropology are to:

- i. help formulate graduate attributes, qualification descriptors, programme learning outcomes and course-level learning outcomes that are expected to be demonstrated by a graduate;
- ii. enable prospective students, parents, employers and others to understand the nature and level of learning outcomes (knowledge, skills, attitudes and values) or attributes a graduate student should be capable of demonstrating on successful completion of study;
- iii. maintain national standards and international comparability of standards to ensure global competitiveness, and to facilitate graduate mobility; and
- iv. provide higher education institutions and their external examiners an important point of reference for setting and assessing standards.

To provide knowledge and skill to the students' thus enabling them to undertake further studies in Anthropology in related areas or multidisciplinary areas that can be helpful for self- employment/ entrepreneurship

PROGRAM LEARNING OUTCOMES

The broad aims of bachelor's degree programme in Anthropology are:

- (i) The outcomes and attributes described in qualification descriptors are attained by learners through learning acquired on completion of a programme of study. The term 'programme' refers to the entire scheme of study followed by learners leading to a qualification. Individual programmes of study will have defined learning outcomes which specify the intended outcomes from that programme of study which must be achieved for the award of a specific degree. The programme learning outcomes are aligned with the relevant qualification descriptors.
- (ii) Programme learning outcomes are quite broad and are designed to capture the knowledge, skills, attitudes and values that are acquired through a programme of study. Programme learning outcomes will include disciplinary-area specific skills that a programme cultivates and generic skills, including transferable global skills and competencies, the achievement of which the students of specific programme of study should be able to demonstrate on completion of the UG programme of study for the award of the graduate degree qualification. The programme learning outcomes would also focus on knowledge and skills that prepare students for further study, employment, and citizenship. Programme learning outcomes outline the minimum essential learning required to successfully complete a programme of study. They also help ensure comparability of learning levels and academic standards across colleges/universities and provide a broad picture of the level of competence of graduates/postgraduates of a given programme of study. A programme of study may be mono-disciplinary, multi-disciplinary or inter-disciplinary.
- (iii) Some examples of desirable learning outcomes (disciplinary-area specific skills, generic skills and attributes) that an undergraduate student of Anthropology should be able to:
- (iv) Demonstrate a fundamental or coherent understanding of the academic field of Anthropology, its different branches and applications, and its linkages with related disciplinary areas/subjects; and (ii) procedural knowledge that creates different types of professionals related to the disciplinary/subject area of Anthropology, including professionals engaged in research and development, teaching and government/public service.
- (v) Demonstrate the ability to use the knowledge of Anthropology in formulating and tackling Anthropology-related problems and identifying and applying appropriate anthropological principles and methodologies to solve a wide range of problems associated with Anthropology.
- (vi) Plan and execute Anthropology-related experiments or field investigations, analyse and interpret data/information collected using appropriate methods, including the use of appropriate software, and report accurately the findings of the experiment/field investigations.
- (vii) Demonstrate relevant generic skills and global competencies such as (i) problem- solving skills that are required to solve different types of Anthropology-related problems with well-defined solutions, and tackle open-ended problems that may cross disciplinary-area boundaries; (ii) investigative skills, including skills of independent investigation of Anthropology-related issues and problems; (iii) communication skills involving the ability to listen carefully, to read texts and research papers analytically and to present complex information in a concise manner to different groups/audiences; (iv) ICT skills; and (v) personal skills such as the ability to work both independently and in a group.
- (viii) Demonstrate professional behaviour such as (i) being objective, unbiased and truthful in all aspects of work and avoiding unethical behaviour such as fabricating, falsifying or misrepresenting data or to committing plagiarism; (ii) the ability to identify the potential ethical issues in work-related situations; and (iii) promoting safe learning and working environment.
